Latécoère wins contract with Boeing for the 777X

Boeing has selected Latécoère to provide video on board equipment including cameras and monitors for the 777X.

Latécoère began its partnership with Boeing in 2004 when it was chosen to supply the passenger doors for the 787 Dreamliner.

Latécoère also supplies HD landscape cameras for the 777, 747-8, and the 787, as well as cockpit door surveillance cameras for the 737Max.

“This selection is an extraordinary opportunity for Latécoère, to enter a new era spanning over the next 20 to 30 years supplying equipment for Boeing’s newest airplane” said Bruno Ferrand, CEO of Latécoère International, Inc.
